

Dorcy Pruter is the founder and CEO of the Conscious Co-parenting Institute. The focus of the institute is to reunite children and targeted parents. The way I found out about her was by finding a series of video interviews she did with Dr. Craig Childress on YouTube. I have the videos posted in the videos section of this site.

You can (and I think should) watch this free video series she produced, it gets right to the heart of what needs to be done to start turning things around right now.

She has a methodology that helps reorganize a child into a more normal range baseline in terms of feelings and relationship to a targeted parent, even after an extended amount of time with little or no contact. What intrigued me, and one of the main reasons why I include her here, is because she comes from looking at observable behaviors and how to effectively combat the affects of pathogenic parenting as Dr. Childress describes it outside of the “established” attitudes and approaches.

Again, I want to help get her name out there by re publishing what she is doing so more people can find it online.
